

The analyst moves the number more than the backend;
the random draw barely moves it

